

Security of firearms

In Buildings;

SECURITY OF FIREARMS AND AMMUNITION

Possession pursuant to firearms licence

Note: firearm includes receivers of firearms.

29. (1) A person (not being a dealer) who has possession of a class A or B firearm, must keep the firearm or receiver secured by-

- (a) Securely attaching and locking it to part of the building in which it is kept; or
- (b) Keeping it in a locked cabinet made of hardwood or steel that is securely attached to the building in which it is kept, or
- (c) Keeping it in a locked safe made of steel that is securely attached to the building in which it is kept; or
- (d) Keeping it in a locked steel and concrete strongroom; or
- (e) Such other method as is approved by the Registrar.

(2) A person (not being a dealer) who has possession of a class C, D or H firearm must keep the firearm or receiver secured by-

- (a) Keeping it in a locked safe made of steel that is securely attached to the building in which it is kept.
- (b) Keeping it in a locked steel and concrete strongroom.
- (c) Such other method as is approved by the Registrar.

(3) A cabinet or safe referred to in sub regulation (1) or (2) must be-

- (a) Fitted with fittings and locks that prevent it from being easily forced open.
- (b) Made of material of sufficient thickness to prevent it from being easily broken, opened or destroyed.

(4) Despite sub regulations (1)(C) and (2)(a), a safe need not be attached to the building if it's mass when empty is 150 kilograms or more.